TWELVE O'CLOCK; M.

THE CAPITAL.

Applicants for Office—Rush at the White House and Departments—Sentence Revoked—Railroad Commissioners, &c.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, March 13, 1869.

THE RUSH FOR OFFICE.

The rush at the White House to-day was as great as ever, including a large number of prominent individuals.

Secretary Boutwell was the recipient of an extensive levee at his office. A great many Senators and Representatives called on him. Office seekers were present in swarms.

The applications to the Treasury and Postoffice Departments are overwhelming. The probability is that not one in five hundred of the applicants can be satisfied.

Two delegations visited the President this afternoon, one representing the soldiers and sailors of the war of 1812, headed by Gen. Skinner. They simply paid their respects. The interview lasted about five minutes. Following them came a delegation from Delaware, whose visit had reference to the distribution of public patronage in that State. The President reminded these gentlemen of the rule that applications for office must be forwarded to heads of Departments to which they pertain.

APPOINTMENTS.

The New York Times says Commissioner of Internal Revenue Delano desires it to be understood that no such rule has been adopted, and it is not the policy of the Department to displace loyal and faithful officers whose record is good, and that a strict examination will be instituted in this matter, and those only marked for removal whose record betrays infidelity or inefficiency in the discharge of their duties.

The Herald's special says speculations as to President Grant's appointments still continue. The following names are mentioned as being likely to be sent in: General Dent, in place of General Miller, Collector of the Port of San Francisco; James O. Budge, United States Marshal of New York; William A. Darling, Naval Officer of New York, and Frank M. Phixley, United States District Attorney for California.

PENSION AGENCIES.

The Secretary of the Interior has appointed Col. W. F. Forbes as Pension Agent at Philadelphia. The agencies at St. Louis and Brooklyn, recently made vacant by resignations, have been filled, but the names have not transpired.

ORGANIZATION AT DEPARTMENTS.

In accordance with the directions of Secretary Boutwell lists were to-day prepared at the Treasury Department of the division of duties in the various Bureaus of the Department, number of persons employed, salary paid, &c., in order that he may become fully acquainted with the duties of the several offices, distribution of forces, &c.

The Postmaster General has also had similar lists prepared in his department.

SENTENCE REVOKED.

The sentence of the Naval General Court Martial in the case of the Second Assistant Engineer Geo. F. Sawyer, United States Navy, tried on a charge of uttering disrespectful language of the President of the United States, to be suspended from rank and duty for one year, and placed on waiting orders, with half pay during that time, and to be publicly reprimanded by the Secretary of the Navy, having been recommended to the President for restoration by Secretary Borie, President Grant yesterday issued the following order:

Executive Mansion, March 12, 1869—The recommendation of the Secretary of the Navy for the revocation of the sentence in the within case is approved,

U. S. GRANT.

CURRENCY ISSUED.

The fractional currency printed during the week amounted to $562,500; shipments, 350,700. National Bank notes issued, $145,600; actual circulation, $299,961,923. Fractional currency destroyed, $759,500.

TOOK CHARGE.

Secretary Rawlins took formal charge of the War Office to-day. Gen. Schofield, the late Secretary, was present, and turned over the affairs of the Department to the new Secretary.

PROMULGATED.

General Sherman has promulgated in general orders the act making appropriations for the army, approved March 3d, 1869.

RESIGNATIONS.

Noah Jeffries, Register of the Treasury, has resigned.

It is stated that Jno. T. Wilson, third Auditor of the Treasury, intends resigning.

PEW TENDERED.

At one o'clock to day, one of the trustees of the new Metropolitan Church waited on the President, and tendered him the pew assigned to him in the new church. This would have been done sooner had the church been fully organized. The interview was very pleasant.

A COLORED APPLICANT.

Gen. Butler to-day introduced to Secretary Boutwell a colored man from New Orleans, named Joubert, and recommended him for appointment as Assessor of Internal Revenue in that city. Joubert said he did not desire the office from pecuniary considerations, but merely to test the disposition of the party in power as to the rights of his race.

NEW YORK COLLECTOR.

It is reported that John D. Clifford, of Massachusetts, is to be appointed Collector of the port of New York.

AN INVESTIGATION.

A thorough investigation is about being ordered into the accounts between the Government and Southern railroads in the matter of rolling stock and material turned over to them since the close of the war.

JAIL WARDEN.

General John S. Crocker was to-day appointed Warden of the Jail, under the recent act of Congress placing the appointment in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS.

The following appointments of Commissioners of the Union Pacific Railroad were made by the Secretary of the Interior: Isaac N Morris, of Illinois, vice Frank P. Blair, Jr.; General Goveneur R. Warren, vice General N. B. Buford, and Hon. Jas. F. Wilson, of Iowa, vice Cornelius Wendell.

WASHINGTON, March 14, 1869.

AGRICULTURAL REPORT.

The monthly report of the Department of Agriculture for February shows that horses have increased slightly in most of the western States, but very little in the middle and eastern, not enough to keep pace with the increased population. The Atlantic sea bound States, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and the Pacific coast States exhibit the largest increase. That the numbers are not equal to the demand is shown by the general though small advance in prices. The increase of mules is also slow in comparison with the rapid aggregation of population, and the range of prices appears to be higher than last year. The returns of oxen and other cattle point to a positive decrease in New Jersey, Maryland, North Carolina, Florida, Texas, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, the diminution amounting to five per cent. in the latter State. In milch cows a reduction is reported in Texas, Ohio and Illinois, and in some of the Southern States. A general increase in the prices of cattle is reported. The reduction in the number of sheep appears to be general, the exceptions being Rhode Island, Tennessee, Missouri, Minnesota, Kansas and the Pacific States. The loss cannot be much less than ten per cent. In some States it is placed at one hundred or more. The prices of sheep have declined slightly in certain sections and advanced in others. In districts where merino stock monopolizes sheep walks the decline is general, and in some sections heavy. The returns of swine corroborate those of last fall, showing in the comparative numbers of fattening hogs a very decided reduction, amounting to fifteen per cent. in a large portion of the Ohio Valley. Prices are largely increased, in many States twenty-five or thirty per cent., and not unfrequently fifty or sixty per cent. An inspection of the tables will show marked advance, the result not only of a reduction in numbers, but of a speculation naturally caused by such a state of facts.

UNFOUNDED.

There is authority for the statement that the representation against the United States Minister at Madrid which recently appeared in the New York Journal, to the effect that the Minister does not sympathize with the Republican movement in Spain, is not confirmed by official and other correspondence of Mr. Hale.

GOVERNOR OF MISSISSIPPI.

Gen. Ames, who has been assigned to duty in command of the Fourth Military District, will also retain the provisional Governorship of Mississippi until Congress acts in the matter.

OCCUPIED A PEW.

President Grant and his family to-day occupied the pew set apart for them in the new Metropolitan Church, in which he is a Trustee.

HARRISBURG.

Authorizing Railroad Companies to Purchase Stock.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, PA., March 14, 1869.

In the legislative report of Friday, contained in yesterday's Pittsburgh papers, noticing the fact that the bill authorizing railroad companies in Pennsylvania to purchase stock and bonds of companies in other States, the tenor of the bill was misapprehended, and it was wrongly printed as authorizing the Pennsylvania Railroad Company alone to make such purchases. The error arose in telegraphing.

Buffalo Board of Trade Meeting—The Grain Elevator Business.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette)

BUFFALO, March 13.—A large meeting of the members of the Board of Trade was held this morning on 'change. Messrs. Barber, Moulton and Shaw, of New York, were present, and the two former addressed the audience. These gentlemen were representatives of the Elevator interests of New York, and were sustained by nearly all the prominent and influential merchants on the Corn Exchange in the advocacy of a radical reform in the present mode of conducting the grain business in that city. Their mission was to explain their views to the Western Chambers of Commerce and devise some uniform plan of action to remedy existing evils. The principal points argued were, if Buffalo and Chicago would reduce their elevating charges, New York would make a fifty per cent. reduction, and that grain should be placed in the elevator immediately on its arrival in New York, instead of remaining several days in the canal waiting sale. The contract system of canal repairing was denounced, as well as the political influences which surrounded Senators and Assemblymen in Albany whenever this subject was brought before them. Statistics, which could not be refuted, were reported and commented upon by the delegation and members of the Board of Trade. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions and report. In the afternoon another meeting was held and the resolutions were unanimously adopted, upon the recommendation of the committee, fully endorsing the suggestions of the delegation; also, a resolution asking the Western Elevating Company of Buffalo to revise their scale of charges for elevating and storing grain. Before adjourning a committee was ordered to be appointed to accompany the New York Committee on their Western trip. The day's proceedings, taken together, were most important and enthusiastically sustained.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 13.—A resolution was introduced in the Senate to-day to reconsider the vote on the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment, which was sustained, ayes nineteen, nays fifteen, and its adoption or rejection made the special order for Tuesday next. No action was taken on reconsideration in the House, but it is asserted that the amendment will pass both houses next week by the votes of the Conservative Republicans and Democrats. The Republicans who oppose tearing down the State government, but believe Congress has the power, under the Fourteenth Amendment, to unseat all holding office in violation of the Constitution, voted for the Fifteenth Amendment, with a determination to uphold Grant and Congress. Twenty-five Republicans voted for it and four against it. Forty-two Democrats voted for it and fifty-six against it. Twenty-four Republicans absented themselves and did not vote, but seventeen of the twenty-four absentees voted for the reconsideration of a subsequent motion to suspend the rules and take up the Fifteenth Amendment. Beaver County Convention of Good Templars.

(Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW BRIGHTON, March 12, 1869.

SECOND DAY'S SESSION.

The forenoon session was occupied in the degree work. Five persons received degrees. Instructions were given, occupying the forenoon session. Everything passed off pleasantly.

The afternoon session opened as usual, G. W. C. T., S. B. Chase in the Chair.

Convention proceeded, after the reading of the minutes, to the election of District officers for the ensuing quarter. It resulted as follows:

W. C. T.—A. Bestwick, of New Brighton.

W. V. T.—Miss Mollie Carter, of Rochester.

W. Secretary—E. H. Alexander, of New Brighton.

W. Treasurer—Joseph Alexander, of New Brighton.

The Committee on Resolutions reported as follows. Passed seriatim:

Resolved, That we are, if possible, more than ever convinced of the magnitude of the evils of intemperance, and the importance of an earnest and untiring prosecution of the temperance work.

Resolved, That we still adhere to the doctrine of total abstinence from all that would intoxicate, as the only true temperance.

Resolved, That we deplore the fact that so many good citizens, and even church members, stand aloof, and neglect, or refuse to assist us in this work of saving the rising generation from this monster evil, which is destroying its victims by thousands all over the land.

Resolved, That we believe it to be the duty of every Christian to be a total abstainer from intoxicating beverages, and to unite with all lovers of humanity in our effort to put away this terrible evil from among us.

Resolved, That while we believe that every church ought to be strictly a temperance organization, and do all they can in that capacity, yet the magnitude and urgency of the work demands that every Christian should also work with the Temperance orders, and thus help to use every means to restore the fallen and rescue those in danger.

Resolved, That in our opinion no one is justifiable in standing aloof from the temperance work upon the plea that it will injure their business. We must sacrifice when necessary for the good of others.

Resolved, That we recommend the organizing of Bands of Hope in the Sabbath Schools in all the churches.

Resolved, That we deplore the use of domestic wines on any and all occasions, as being productive of serious evils, and warn all mothers not to allow any such poisons a place in their cupboards.

Resolved, That all laws licensing the sale of alcoholic liquors as a beverage are pernicious and wrong and should be repealed.

Resolved, That while we will continue the use of moral suasion, and all mild means to reclaim the intemperate, and to prevent men from engaging in the liquor traffic, yet past experience has convinced us that we need, and in order to succeed must have legislation in the shape of prohibition.

Resolved, That we respectfully but earnestly request the Honorable Court of Beaver County to grant no licenses to sell liquors when they can honorably refuse to do so.

Resolved, That our G. W. C. T., Brother Chase, is cordially invited to visit us again at his earliest convenience.

Resolved, That we return the thanks of this Convention to the New Brighton Lodge for the hospitable manner in which they have entertained its members during our session.

After the resolutions were disposed of, Mr. Chase addressed the meeting on the unwritten work of the Order, urging uniformity.

The Convention adjourned with singing, prayer and benediction.

New Brighton then convened and organized a degree Temple, elected officers, etc.

In the evening a public meeting was held in the First Methodist Church, (Rev. Crowther's,) where the Hon. Mr. Chase delivered an earnest address, to a large audience, on the importance of organized, earnest efforts; urging those not identified with any Temperance order to come in and help us. He was followed by Mr. Locke, of Maine, who gave us a brief address and two fine pieces of temperance music, producing a fine impression upon the audience.

The remonstrances were circulated, and quite a number more names secured against any more licenses in the borough. The benediction closed the entertainment.

Report of the Fish Commissioner.

Col. James Worrall, Commissioner for the restoration of the fisheries of the Susquehanna River, in his report for the year 1868, sets forth in detail and in a very able manner, all that is necessary for the restoration of our once vast fisheries, and shows this can be done at little expense either to the corporations owning the dams, or to the State whose duty it undoubtedly is to make such improvements. Unquestionably, when the dams are properly arranged for the passage of fish, the people along all the shores of the Susquehanna will have abundance of shad, while the introduction of new species of fish will then become a source of great profit to fishermen.

FAREWELL.

BY MICHAEL BRUCE.

Now Spring returns; but not to me returns
The versal joy my better years have known;
Dim in my breast life's dying taper burns,
And all the joys of life with health are flown.

Starting and shiv'ring in th' inconstant wind,
Meagre and pale, the ghost of what I was,
Beneath some blasted tree I lie reclin'd,
And count the silent moments as they pass.

The winged moments, whose unstaying speed
No art can stop, or in their course arrest;
Whose flight shall shortly count me with the dead,
And lay me down in peace with them that rest.

Oft morning dreams presage approaching fate:
And morning dreams, as poets tell, are true;
Led by pale ghosts, I enter Death's dark gate,
And bid the realms of light and life adieu!

I hear the helpless wail, the shriek of woe:
I see the muddy wave, the dreary shore,
The sluggish streams that slowly creep below,
Which mortals visit and return no more.

Farewell, ye blooming fields! ye cheerful plains!
Enough for me the churchyard's lonely mound,
Where melancholy with still silence reigns,
And the rank grass waves o'er the cheerless ground.

There let me wander, at the close of eve,
Where sleep sits dewy on the laborer's eyes.
The world and all its busy follies leave
And talk with wisdom where my Daphnis lies.

There let me sleep, forgotten, in the clay,
When death shall shut these weary, aching eyes,
Rest in the hopes of an eternal day,
Till the long night is gone, and the last morn arise.

The Christian Gentleman.

A modern writer thus describes the Christian gentleman:

He is above a mean thing. He cannot stoop to a mean fraud. He invades no secret in the keeping of another; he betrays no secrets confided to his own keeping. He never struts in borrowed plumage. He never takes selfish advantage of our mistakes. He uses no ignoble weapons in controversy. He never stabs in the dark. He is ashamed of inuendos. He is not one thing to a man's face and another behind his back. If by accident he comes in possession of his neighbor's counsels, he passes upon them an act of instant oblivion. He bears sealed packages without tampering with the wax. Papers not meant for his eye, whether they flutter at his window or lie open before him in unguarded exposure, are sacred to him. He invades no privacy of others, however the sentry sleeps. Bolts and bars, locks and keys, hedges and ets, bonds and securities, notice to tresspassers, are none of them for him. He may be trusted himself out of sight, near the thinnest partition, anywhere. He buys no offices, he sells none, intrigues for none. He would rather fail of rights than win them through dishonor. He will eat honest bread. He tramples on no sensitive feeling. He insults no man. If he have rebuke for another he is straightforward, open, manly. He cannot descend to scurrility. In short, whatever he judges honorable he practices toward every man.

A "Small Sin" Among Women.

One of our small sins is our small jealousy of each other. It is wrong to say that women cannot be friends together; we can—true, firm, enduring friends; but we doubt if any young woman's friendship ever existed free from jealousy. If we are not jealous about men we are about women, and guard our rights against division with the vigilance of a house-dog guarding his domain. No man can understand the unresisting pettiness of jealousy that exists between woman-friends; no man knows it for his own part, and no man would submit to it from his friend. But we accept it patiently, knowing where the shoe pinches from the shape of our own feet. As wives and lovers we are perhaps the most exclusive and the the most jealous women in the world. There is scarcely a woman in England who would allow her husband to admire any other woman, or to make any other a friend, or to show frank pleasure in her society. There would be pouting, or tears, or tantrums, according to individual disposition, and the whole harmony of the household would be swept by the board; the practical upshot of which is that men make friends outside their homes, unknown to their respective Junos. This changes the complexion of the whole affair, and makes what would have been only a friendship, if it could have been frankly acknowledged, an intrigue instead.

◆

WE ARE CLAY in the doctor's hands, and look upon the dicta of the profession with tractableness. It is a little startling, though, to note the physicians and surgeons of London divided into two bodies as to the treatment of so serious a complaint as rheumatic fever. Twice has this subject been debated by the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, and the real question at issue was, whether, on the whole, to treat this dangerous and painful disease, or to leave it alone! The eupheuistic expression for the latter course is "to give mint water." The work which seems most successful is that of the nurse rather than that of the doctor. At one of the principal London hospitals the chief points are: 1. Absolute rest in bed, insured by swathing the legs and arms in cotton wool, and by supporting the feet by pillows, so as to relieve the ligaments from their weight. 2. The removal of the pressure of the bed-clothes by a cradle. 3. The removal of local pain by smearing the affected joints with belladonna liniment, sometimes strengthened by rubbing down the extract in it. The Lancet is shocked by this simplicity, but suggests nothing in its stead.

An Old Maid's Views.

Some one who avows herself an old maid takes a very cheerful and satisfactory view of her social situation in the Troy Times. Her views will be of interest to many:

It always astonishes me when I take a realizing sense of the fact that I am an old maid! Why, you'll scarcely believe it when I confess that I once had lovers by the legion, and offers were as numerous as flirtations are now-a-days. I was always in love. I don't remember the time when I had not some Willie or Frank to dream about, and write love letters to, and as I donned my long dresses, some handsome Charles Augustus was sure to keep my thoughts employed until another with greater fascinations superseded him. You need not imagine I regret them now. No, indeed! My life is a pleasant one. No one annoys me. No husband flirts with other men's wives or young girls, breaking my heart. No husband calls me "my love" in company and "old brute" at home! He does not growl at milliners' bills or extravagant wardrobes. He never sits looking at me, wishing I were as handsome as Mrs. B—— or Miss J——. He does not wish my eyes were as divinely blue and my hair as charmingly golden as Katie's, over the way. He never casts sly glances at pretty girls, throwing them kisses when my back is turned. He doesn't marvel how he ever came to marry me, when there were so many handsome women in the world. If I am ill, he is not wondering how weeds would become him, and if he should be obliged to have an expensive funeral. He isn't thinking what a jolly widower he would make, and how eager pretty Jennie F—— would be to marry him, or how gladly Flora J—— would lift up her bewitching brown eyes and promise to be his. He does not complacently fondle his elegant moustache before the mirror, and think every one must pity him, and regret (girls especially) that so handsome a man should be bound to so plain looking a woman. He isn't watching me continually to see if I fulfill all my duties as a wife; to criticise my every movement, to be annoyed at the weakness of the tea, the toughness of the steak, or the lateness of the breakfast. Thank the gods—no! I am a free woman. I do as I please, go where I please, think, breathe, sneeze, wink, cough, eat and sleep as I please. Old Mother Hubbard had her dog, Dame Crump had her pig, but I have my cat! An intellectual animal, too, one that has more natural intelligence than many children. Tabby and I enjoy ourselves in a rational manner. She never speaks a cross word; neither do I. Together we sit and think hours at a time, by the open grate, and draw great morals from the fire within. Tabby has a quiet temperament and we never quarrel. I often hear people exclaim that old maids are always gossips. Not so. I don't care if Mary Jane has stolen another girl's beau. I never feel interested in the cost of Susan's new bonnet or Jennie's silk dresses. I do not wonder that Mrs. C— should be extravagant, or Miss C— should flirt so much. What do I care? Tabby and I occusionally remark upon the folly and stupidity of certain persons, but we do not mention it out of our own family. My cat is not communicative; neither am I.

Yesterday I met one of my old lovers. Once he praised my eyes, my lips, the beauty of my hair, the freshness of my manners. He professed to love me, but he met a prettier girl and I a gayer young man, and so we parted. He is married now, has a cross, faded wife and seven children. He looks old and weary. I felt sorry for him, but I smiled at my folly in even wasting one thought upon him. Would I give up my jolly life of an old maid? Never! My hair is growing gray, but I don't use "Hall's Hair Restorative." My face has some wrinkles in it, but I don't use "Laird's Bloom of Youth." My fingers are not white and soft and dimpled, but I do not bathe them with "cold cream," and wear old kids. I don't tear out my hair with crimpers. I never wear long trails that sweep the ground for half a mile. I do not wear humps on my back and double up with the fashionable "Grecian bend." I don't have to wear eye-glasses and pretend I am near sighted. I am not obliged to wear a butterfly's wing on my head in February, freezing my ears until they are purple. I don't have to go shivering in low-necked dresses, nor howl opera music until my throat is sore, nor study attitudes before my mirror, nor twist my tongue out endeavoring to learn German, nor fall in love with my dancing master. I am not under the painful necessity of squeezing my hands into No. 6 gloves when seven is my number, nor do I pinch my feet in little shoes until existence seems a burden. I do not have to sing Italian ditties in a languishing manner to some sentimental youth in tight pants and waxed moustache. I am far more independent in my plain merino, with my hair in a little knot, than Miss Flora McFlimsey is in her silks and sparkling diamonds. I can look at a gay young man, and he does not flatter himself that I am dying for love of him. I can go to church and listen to the sermon, not caring for the stylish hats and handsome dresses of my neighbors. I can enjoy my friends' successes and riches, feeling no envy. I can see lovers kiss their sweethearts good-night without a pang.

A Tough One.

"Talk about bedbugs," said Bill Jones, who had been across the Plains, "you should have seen some of the critters I met in Idaho last spring. I stopped one night with some settlers, who lived in a log cabin containing only one room and a loft. When it came time to go to bed they strung a blanket across the middle of the room, and the settler's family slept on one side of it and give me the tother. I laid down to go to sleep; the bedbugs began to gether like lunch eaters around a free 'lay out.' I tried to kiver up and keep away from 'em, but the pesky varmints would catch hold of the bedclothes and pull them off from me. They didn't think nothin' of draggin' me round the room if I held on. I fit 'em till about midnight, and then I looked around for some way to escape. There was a ladder reachin' up into the loft, and I thought the best way to get away from the bloodsuckers was to climb up thar, so I did. There wasn't any bugs in the loft, so I laid down, congratulatin myself on my escape. Pretty quick I heard the ladder squeaken' as if somebody was comin' up. Bimeby I saw a bedbug raise himself up through the hole in the floor and look carefully around the loft. Soon's he saw me he motioned to his chums below, the bloodthirsty cuss, and cried exultin'ly, "Come up, boys; he's here.—Cincinnati Times.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, March 13, 1869.

Business generally has been dull during the week which has just closed, but hopes are entertained that the dull season is about over, and that we will have good spring trade. The uncertainty in regard to the financial situation has had a good deal to do with the dullness which has prevailed during the past winter, but there is now every indication that the new administration will have a sound and permanent financial policy, and when this is once developed, business will improve not only here, but all over the country. Capitalists who have their money locked up in stocks, bonds, real estate, etc etc., will again put it into active employment, and with an easier money market, there are plenty of men who by sheer force of circumstances, have been kept in the back ground, will once more be enabled to go into active business.

GROCERIES—The market, especially for "Sweets," is very dull, though prices generally are without any important change. Refined Sugars have within the past ten days declined fully 3 to 3½ cents per pound, and raw nearly the same ratio, and even at this decline their is no demand. Coffees remain without important change.

GRAIN—Wheat is very dull and some of the millers quote prime winter at $1,55. Oats quiet and unchanged at 65@66 on track and 68@70 in store. Rye is dull; sales at $1,43 on track and $1,45 delivered. RIVER NEWS.

Both rivers continue to recede steadily at this point, with eight feet six inches in the channel by the Monongahela marks and nine and a half feet by those of the Allegheny. The weather yesterday was warm and Spring-like, and the snow has almost entirely disappeared. Mercury at noon was up to 60.

The Glendale, from St. Louis, is the only transient arrival we have to report. She has a good trip and a very handsome new pilot house in the place of the one which was burned.

The Lorena, en route from St. Louis to Pittsburgh, was at Louisville on Friday.

The Gallipolis Journal of Thursday says: On Monday the Cottage No. 2 came down the Kanawha, preparatory to being taken to Pittsburgh, where a new hull and cabin are to be built for her machinery, suitable for the Kanawha trade. Capt. D. Y. Smithers will superintend the building of the boat. Capt. Newton owns two-thirds and J. W. Oaks one-third of the Cottage.

A Memphis paper says: Fifty thousand dollars has been subscribed by our merchants for the purpose of organizing a barge line to transport freights from St. Louis to this port. The enterprise is being pushed ahead in such a manner that it is bound to be a success.

The Wild Duck passed by Cincinnati en route for Pittsburgh on Thursday.

The Sallie departed for Missouri River on Saturday with a splendid trip, about six hundred tons, and all the passengers she could accommodate. Pilots—Fawcett and Hughes.

The Kenton, for Portsmouth, and Grey Eagle, for Parkersburg also departed on Saturday with good trips.

It is reported that the Argosy will be back here in the course of a week or two and will again enter the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati packet trade. Capt. Lew Vandergrift was expected to arrive here on Saturday.

The Bayard, Capt. Geo. D. Moore, is the regular packet for Parkersburg today, leaving at noon.

The Camelia, Capt. Joseph Lytle, will positively leave for Nashville to-day, and passengers and shippers should bear in mind that she will positively go through.

The Armenia, Capt. Jas. Hamilton, is announced to leave for St. Louis to-morrow, as is also the Kate Putnam, Capt. G. W. Reed, for Cincinnati and Louisville.

The Messenger, Capt. Dean, Savanna, Capt. Isherwood and Glasgow, Capt. Robinson, are all loading for the Upper Mississippi. The Savanna, is announced to leave to-morrow.

The Silver Lake No. 4, Capt. Todd, is annouced for St. Louis and Missouri River.

Capt. Stockdale will probably commence loading the new steamer Alejandro for New Orleans, in the course of a few days.

Capt. M. A. Cox's new mountain boat "Collossal," is rapidly approaching completion.

—The Leonidas left New Orleans for Pittsburgh on Thursday.

—Captain Ford, with the tug Nettie Jones, arrived at Memphis from Duvall's Bluff on Wednesday, both boat and Captain having been released by the authorities of Arkansas.

—Mr. Pelton, of Lyons, Iowa who last summer built the steamer "Lone Star," which was speedy, is again trying his hand on a still smaller boat, the hull being but eight feet wide and thirty long. The new boat will be called the "Comet."

—The Wrecking-boat Salver No. 1, was at last accounts, alongside of the sunken Peoria City, making preparations to raise her. The Submarine No. 3, has been sent to her assistance. Captain Powell, of the St. Louis River Wrecking Company, has the contract for raising her.

—The St. Paul Dispatch, of Monday, says: We are pleased to learn that the announcement in Saturday's Dispatch, that the steamboat war was ended, and that it was not ended, was strictly correct. The steamboat and railroad lines have agreed to meet in Chicago next Wednesday to agree, and if they don't agree, it will be owing to a failure to agree upon the agreement which they have agreed to agree upon when they meet on Wednesday to agree upon said agreement.

—Captain Ruford, of the Northern Line, was present at the Chicago meeting, and has returned to his home in Rock Island. He confirms the news and informs the Argus that the companies have agreed to fix on a general tariff, to be maintained throughout the season. The proposition came from the Northwestern Union Line, and was accepted by the Northern Line. In regard to the rates, Captain Ruford states that business will open with down stream freights at 20 cents, and up stream freights at 25 cents. "All's well that ends well," and it will be a marvel if one of the lines doesn't fly the compromise. Both lines have entered into solemn league and covenant before, and ere the season was fairly commenced, been at odds in the most vigorous manner.—[Davenport Gazette.

—We clip the following from the St. Louis Democrat, of Thursday: Mr. Alex. McBride, long a citizen of St. Louis, and an old boatman, has died here—aged 49. He was a native of Pittsburgh, or at all events long a resident there previous to coming West. The flags of the steamers in port were displayed at half mast yesterday. His funeral takes place to-day from 1124 North 6th street. Capt. M'Bride commanded the Amazonian, many years ago, in the trade between Pittsburgh and St. Louis. He was engaged since then on many other steamers, among them the Big Horn. He was for some time engaged in business here, in connection with a Pittsburgh iron firm. Captain McBride was possessed of fine qualities of mind and heart, and his death is universally regretted.

We clip the following from a late New Orleans exchange: Judge Cooley, of the Sixth District Court, has rendered judgment in the case of Babbit, Good & Co. vs. the Sun Mutual Insurance Co., in favor of plaintiffs. In April, 1861, an insurance was effected on 75 hhds of sugar, shipped from New Orleans to Cincinnati, for $4,150. The steamboat Mars was brought to at Helena, Ark., boarded and the cargo taken possession of by parties residing there at the time. This was before any ordinance of secession was passed. The Sun Mutual Insurance Co., under its contract, took upon itself to bear "all adventures and perils of the river, fires, rovers, assailing thieves, and all other perils: and losses, and misfortunes that have or shall come to the hurt, detriment or damage of the said goods or any part thereof." The defense claimed the Company did not insure against public enemies; but the plea was overruled, and the Court held that the parties who took possession of these goods could legally be regarded in no other light than as assailing thieves. The terms of the policy specially bound the Insurance Company against such peril; hence, the judgment for plaintiff.

DANFORTH'S
PETROLEUM FLUID,
A New, Cheap and Brilliant Light.
SAFE UNDER ALL CIRCUMSTANCES!

A FEW TESTIMONIALS:

NEW ORLEANS, July 9, 1868.
I have examined with the utmost care, and subjected to the most severe experimental tests, the Danforth Petroleum Fluid, and find it perfectly Non-Explosive, more easily extinguished when purposely ignited, and in my opinion the safest of all the Fluids produced from Crude Petroleum which I have examined. COLUMBUS, O., December 4, 1868.
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
I have examined the Petroleum Fluid sold by Messrs. Smith & Talbot, of this city, and am satisfied that it is safer to use than Coal Oil in any other form which has come to my notice. It is non-explosive. The Board of Underwriters of this city examined it carefully, and do not charge any increased rate of insurance on account of its use, or in buildings where it is kept for sale in quantities not exceeding our City Ordinances.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp, 57f.

GOLD closed in New York on Saturday at 131¼.

SPEAKER BLAINE, will announce the Committees of the House to-day, and gossip states that the Pennsylvania delegation will be placed in many leading positions.

THE HOUSE resolution to adjourn Congress before the close of this month will be amended in the Senate. It is doubtful if the public business can be all disposed of before the end of April.

A DISPOSITION has been developed at Washington to run General HANCOCK as the Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, this year, with the view, in case he shall be successful, of making him the candidate for President in 1872.

THE Louisiana sugar-growers are prosperous, and decline to ask for any increase in the present duties on that article. Hence there is little probability that Congress will make such a change, to please the refiners of Philadelphia and New York.

THE Spanish Treasury is exhausted, and the Minister of Finance proposes to replenish it by means of a loan. Considering the repudiation of the old debt by the revolutionary government, it may well be doubted if the new loan will be easily negotiated.

THE HON. JAMES GUTHRIE, late United States Senator for Kentucky, and Secretary of the Treasury under President PIERCE, died on Saturday last. He was a man of more than common capacities, and exerted a large measure of influence upon public affairs.

IN REPLY to a congratulatory note from a convention of colored Republicans in Maryland, Postmaster General CRESWELL triumphantly alludes to "the noble stand taken by President GRANT in his inaugural in favor of the ratification of the proposed Constitutional Amendment."

THE Commercial loudly professed to be opposed to the retention in or appointment to public offices of men who belong to that much abused class known as politicians; but it squirms vigorously whenever it discovers reason to think that one of its special set is likely to be turned out or fail to get in.

FRANCE elects a new Corps Legislatif next month, and a contest of unusual interest and excitement is anticipated. While the choice of a majority in the interests of the government is conceded as certain, it is probable that the opposition will secure an increased number of members.

THE XVth article has been approved by the Senate of Pennsylvania, and the House proposes to ratify it on Wednesday next. This delay is conceded to the opposition, whose dying speeches and maledictions consume a good deal of time. "A rogue ne'er feels the halter draw, with good opinion of the law."

VIRGINIA AND GEORGIA hold different estimates on the lives of editors. GRANT assassinated POLLARD in Richmond, firing down upon him from a concealed place. He was tried and acquitted by a jury. Dr. DARDEN assassinated an editor in Warrenville, Georgia, last week, imitating GRANT's method of taking off precisely. He was taken to the woods by a Committee of citizens and shot.

GENERAL LONGSTREET, it is stated, will peremptorily decline the Surveyorship of the port of New Orleans, and on the ground that to accept it would expose him to the imputation of supporting the Government in consideration of pecuniary profit. This elevates still higher the reputation of the General, at the same time justifying in the strongest possible manner the action of the President.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT in England favors the appointment of JOHN BRIGHT as a special envoy to Washington charged with the adjustment of the Alabama question, the entire negotiation being remitted hither. With Mr. MOTLEY to represent us at the Court of St. James, the question would be safe in his hands, but Mr. BRIGHT would be welcomed here, we think, if charged with ample powers in the premises.

THE POINT is well taken by the New York Advertiser, that the concurrence of the Senate in the STEWART nomination did not of necessity imply its ignorant disregard of the law of 1789. It was a proper inference for Senators, in any event, to presume that the name was submitted with a full understanding of all the legal conditions, and that existing obstacles, if any, would be removed prior to a legal qualification of the nominee.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer (Dem.,) does not deny the design imputed to its friends in the Ohio Legislature, to re-district the State for Congress, but dwells on the injustice of the present apportionment, and substantially insists that two wrongs will accomplish one right. It is to be observed that the Enquirer only claims that "the Democrats are entitled, by their popular strength, to nine of the nineteen districts." Its friends are likely to carry out their design, but we agree with the Cleveland Leader that the Legislative elections of next autumn will practically remedy the intended mischief, in time for the canvass of 1870.

NORTH CAROLINA has ratified the XVth Article, and her action has been duly certified by Governor HOLDEN. This is the eleventh State to enroll its decisive support for the new Amendment.

Each branch of the Georgia Legislature has voted for ratification, but each has reconsidered its vote, and the question is retained under consideration. The affair is very embarrassing to the rebel-Democracy of that State, whose dilemma hangs between a reluctance to accept equal suffrage for themselves, and a vindictive desire to inflict it upon the North. In the meantime, telegrams from their Senators at Washington implore the Legislature to ratify, as the only way to escape a more distasteful reconstruction.

The Arkansas Senate ratifies by a large majority.

POLITICIANS, like the rest of mankind, are divisible into two classes—the good and the bad. Many of the best and the wisest men in the nation are politicians. GREELEY, SUMNER, CHASE, WADE, FISH, BOUTWELL, may be taken as specimens of this class. Not a few politicians are among the worst of men. JOHNSON may be taken as the most prominent sample.

Many business men are entitled to the highest commendation for wisdom, purity and usefulness. Some of them are so clearly of another description, that they are inmates of penitentiaries.

Clergymen, as a body, have superior training, are models of social and moral propriety, and do much good in the world. One of them was arrested last week in Missouri for getting his own daughter with child.

Need we say more to show the folly and injustice of indiscriminate denunciation? Let each man stand or fall, justly according to what he is.

OHIO is a decidedly Republican State, but a very large majority of its citizens deemed it wise, in October '67, to reject an equal-suffrage amendment to the State Constitution, and suffered themselves to elect the "Democratic" Legislature which is still in session. The XVth Article has been sent to this body for its action, and we regret to announce that the "unterrified" majority have not the pluck to reject it, although their present majority is due to the local unpopularity of a kindred measure. Under the specious pretense of a desire to submit the question directly to the people, at another election, they seek to escape the odium inevitably to result from a square refusal to ratify the most purely Democratic proposition of the day. They are valiant enough, however to propose a project for re-districting the State for Congressional purposes, so as to secure thirteen of the nineteen members, in the face of a popular Republican majority of about 18,000. The partizan assurance which this exhibits may be better understood, when we reflect that, under the new census, to be taken next year at the latest, the regular decennial apportionment must follow. It is comfortable to know that next October will afford the right kind of popular commentary upon this sort of "Democracy."

THE PRESIDENT and Senate will transact a very large amount of business this week, in the reformation of the Johnsonized officeholders. A long list of nominations will be sent in to-day, including several of the foreign missions. The English mission is the most important, and is likely to be given to Mr. MOTLEY, although the President's inclinations have at one time favored the selection of HORACE GREELEY.

The appointment of Mr. MOTLEY, if it shall be made, will be an excellent one; and yet we should be much better satisfied in the selection of Mr. GREELEY, and for several reasons: 1. Mr. GREELEY is the strongest and clearest thinker and writer on political and social questions in this nation: 2. He is in perfect accord with what are understood to be the views of the Presidential and Republican majority in the Senate, on the questions pending with England; 3. He is one of the men who has furnished brains and moral impulse to the Republican movement, from the beginning to this hour, and it is most fit that in this moment of complete emancipation and enfranchisement, he and such as he should be duly honored and promoted. 4. No party can reasonably expect victories in the future, that steadily neglects its representative men.

AND now comes "the war-cloud in Europe" again. It is seen this time, not half as big as one's hand, in a railway quarrel between France and Belgium, but all the sensational journalists insist that every leading political question of the Continent is wrapped up within its tiny folds. We recognize, once more, the same old story of NAPOLEON's ambition, of the humiliated and vindictive French pride, of the calm confidence of BISMARCK, the impecuniosity of Austria, the Italian disorders and the Russian plots for territorial aggrandizement. Possibly, it is the habit with some of our cotemporaries to keep a variety of leading articles on European politics standing always in type, for reprint each quarter-day with the least possible correction. Certainly, we have heard the same story over and over again. It is pleasant, in the meantime, to know that this particular "war-cloud" will be as harmless as its nine predecessors.

THE COUNTY JUDGESHIPS.

Upon the promotion of Mr. HENRY W. WILLIAMS to the bench of the Supreme Court, Mr. JOHN M. KIRKPATRICK was commissioned by the Governor as his successor in the District Court. The place will be filled by election next October. It is understood that the friends of Mr. KIRKPATRICK will endeavor to secure the Republican nomination for him. We have farther heard it mentioned that the friends of Mr. JOHN P. PENNY and Mr. DAVID REED will press their claims for the nomination.

Mr. MELLON is approaching the end of his term as one of the Judges in the Court of Common Pleas, and does not wish to be re-elected. As his successor, Messrs. THOMAS EWING, R. BIDDLE ROBERTS, WM. B. NEGLEY and F. H. COLLIER, have been named.

It may be that the some of the gentlemen mentioned as aspirants, are not so; and that other persons, not included in the above lists, really are.

EDWIN M. STANTON.

The New York Independent states that "Ex-Secretary STANTON is in very poor health, with only slight chances of recovery."

We were advised, last year, that the physical condition of Mr. STANTON was such as to fill the hearts of his friends, to whom the facts were known, with the most painful apprehensions. Later, the impression has prevailed that the symptoms of his disorder were yielding to the kindly influences of relaxation from labor, of repose from cares and responsibilities which would have been fatal to any other man in the country, but which he administered faithfully to the last letter, and still survived. We still trust that a constitution of iron and an indomitable will may, under Providence, still preserve our great War-Secretary, to enjoy, in a green old age, the well-earned gratitude of his countrymen. Living or dying, the day is sure to come, nor is it far off, when all partizan asperities and even rebel animosities shall fade away, and one American people, from the Lakes to the Gulf, shall honor the name of this man. Loyalty can never forget him, and those who once hated the Union will yet acknowledge their great debt to one who contributed so much to save them from themselves.

THE TRUE REMEDY.

The North Carolina Judge who makes public proclamation specifying certain leaders of the K. K. K., by name, commanding their surrender to the officers of the law, summoning the posse of their county to aid the Sheriff in their arrest, and notifying them that resistance will justify their death on the spot, hits the best possible method of quelling the lawless spirit which has made large districts of the South uninhabitable by law-abiding men. Let the parish Judges of Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and Tennessee follow this example, and there would be little if any occasion for calling their State militia into service. Those local magistrates who know their duty, and dare to do it, are always the best possible conservators of the public peace. The cases are very rare in which their timely and vigorous interposition will not repress crime, and check any tendency to lawlessness; when such cases occur, the superior authority of the State should be safely relied upon. It is only in the very last emergency that the Federal power should be invoked to maintain the laws.

We hold that the entire Union affords not one solitary precinct, not even in Texas, where the sentiment of obedience to the written law is wholly eradicated from the popular breast. This sentiment is the universal attribute of our American citizenship, and is often most acute and, if need be, demonstrative, in districts where the rudest ignorance prevails. The courageous magistrate who squares his official conduct by the lines of his legal duty, never appeals to this sentiment in vain. No matter how completely his neighborhood may seem to have surrendered itself to thieves or assassins, even under political pretexts, the offenders are ever found to be really but a fraction of the community, and are speedily outnumbered and mastered by the friends of good order and the law. These may wait for the proper summons, but when it comes they swarm up from the earth like the men of RHODERICK DHU. It is such magistrates that the South needs, and she will show that she has them, when she finds herself held responsible for her own social and political regeneration. She can keep her own peace, if she will. And she begins to realize that she must help herself.

OUR BREAD—AND HOW TO GET IT.

St. Paul, at the head of river navigation on the upper Mississippi, is the central point in the Northwestern system of railways, several of which are in various stages of progress towards completion. Its connections with the Southeast are already perfected, and it extends its iron arms toward the North, and Westward toward the Pacific Coast. The Northern Pacific Railway starts from St. Paul as its initial point, and, before many years have gone by, will penetrate an exceedingly favorable region, and reach the shore of the great Western Ocean above the mouth of the Columbia. Of this route it is claimed, and we have reason to think with justice, that it presents a better alignment, easier grades, climatic conditions more favorable, and traverses, through nearly its entire extent, a region of larger agricultural capacity, and in every particular more congenial to the habits and physical temperament of our ruling race, than either of its southerly rivals for the trans-continental traffic of both the Western and the Eastern world. The construction of this great road awaits the public decision, and it is already apparent that the temper of the public sentiment is rapidly taking a shape which renders its early completion inevitable.

The State of Minnesota lies in the very heart of a region which constitutes to-day the largest and most productive wheat-garden of these States. The locality of the leading production of this cereal, which is first and most essential of all the grains for the food of man, has been moving steadily, for two generations, towards the West and North. The Eastern wing still rests upon Michigan and Illinois, but Wisconsin, and still more Minnesota, are now the centre of a region which yields the largest and surest supplies of this staple, and of the most desirable quality. And still the wheat-belt slopes westwardly. Within the lives of our young men, the rich plains of Dacotah, of Saskatchewan and of the Red River of the North will control the wheat markets of this continent. This remarkable movement of the wheat-growing belt is due in part to the impoverishing methods of American agriculture, which rapidly exhaust rich soils of the elements needful for the best growth of the wheat plant, and in part to the opening up of new territories which develop the especial adaptation of their virgin soils, and the congeniality of their climate for the successful cultivation of this grain. In the regions which we have specified, there extends an area broad enough for an empire, of the best wheat land on the face of the globe, and scarcely the scratch of a plow has yet been given to it by the shiftless pioneer.

This region extends in the rear of Minnesota to the North and West. Its business, in travel and the traffic in its surplus productions, must necessarily come by the shortest route Eastward, touching the valley of the Mississippi at St. Paul, and thence toward the sea-board markets, by the best route considering time and expense of carriage. This transportation must be by rail throughout the region of which we speak, for nature there presents no facilities whatever for a water-carriage. But wherever this water-carriage can be made available, in bearing the bulky products of agriculture, hundreds and thousands of miles onward to the markets of consumption, the inflexible laws of trade will give to such carriage the preference over railway transportation.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the situation already engages the attention of sagacious capitalists, who recognize the need for an early and ample preparation to meet the approaching demands of a vast traffic between the States of the East, which have, years since, ceased to grow their own bread, and this broad granary of the Northwest, which is within so few years to swarm with the industry and prosperity of civilization. Obviously, the eye of science and enterprise turns to the readiest and cheapest method of connecting the production of those fertile plains with the consumption of the Eastern millions. Water-carriage, by the great Northern Lakes, offers its ready and ample channel for eleven hundred miles, and so nearly in the general direction which the traffic will take, that the mileage by water, from the western extremity of Lake Superior to Buffalo very little if any exceeds that of the shortest railway line yet constructed between the two points. Our Lakes are all connected by rivers or navigable canals, and would bear the fleets of the world without inconvenience. The grain-laden barque which sails from Du Luth, the westernmost port of Superior, need not break bulk until she reaches Ogdensburgh, within twelve hours of the sea-coast. It is apparent, therefore, that this must be the principal channel of the immense traffic which is to grow out of the present rapid development of the Northwestern States, and of the States yet to be shaped out of the unbounded empire beyond them. It needs only to connect the railway system of that region with the Lake Superior coast, to give an impetus almost without limit to the Westward progress of population and agricultural production, and to secure a splendid reward for capital and enterprise.

The distance from St. Paul, the centre of that railway-system, to Du Luth, the port on Lake Superior, is but 150 miles. The "Lake Superior and Mississippi River Railroad Company" are now constructing the entire line, of which thirty miles are finished and in use, while the residue of the work is much advanced and will be completed by the 1st of January next, through to the Lake. Its management is in the most competent hands; this is evident enough when we know that J. EDGAR THOMSON, S. M. FELTON and ISAAC HINCKLEY are the Executive Committee of the Company. These gentlemen, who are recognized as of leading influence in the railway world, see that they have a good thing, and have taken hold of it to put it through.

The Company is believed to possess the most valuable land-endowment of any railway in the Union. Congress has given to them 1,632,000 acres of land, really as valuable for its timber and for agricultural use as any in the Union. This is a larger domain than the State of Delaware, and, naturally, is worth a half dozen Delawares. Intending to build a first-class road, expressly with a view to the requirements for a business which nothing but their capacity can limit, the Company spares no expense. Its Executive Committee know how to spend the money so that it will tell. They offer now a seven per cent. gold-loan of $4,500,000, secured by a first mortgage upon the franchise and all the property of the Company, including therein its valuable land-grant, which would be less than $3.00 per acre on the land, with one hundred and fifty miles of first-class railway, constructed and in operation, with all its equipments thrown in. The bonds, principal and seven per cent. interest payable in gold, are offered at ninety-five cents in currency, by the agents, JAY COOKE & Co., who say they never yet sold a bond which did not turn out a safe, first-class investment. The offer certainly merits the favor of capitalists, and investors.

This project has our hearty good-will, since its success will supply the needful link to perfect the continuously connecting chain, between the non-producing States of the East and those distant but fertile regions from which a half of the Republic must draw its food-supply before another generation passes away. The construction of this short railway link has a powerful bearing on one of the most vital questions in our social economy—the bread-question, to which so many others are subordinate. It is in this view that we welcome the sure success of the project, and congratulate the promoters upon a forecast as prompt as it is sagacious.

Washington Items.

The President had filled up to-day the nomination of Mr. Motley to be Minister to England, vice Johnson, to be removed. It will be sent in with others on Monday next.

Hon. James Campbell will be pressed by his friends for re-appointment as Minister to Stockholm, from which post he was removed by Johnson.

Of three applicants for the Postoffice at Dubuque, one claims it because his wife is a cousin of Grant; another says he can "go him two nieces better;" and the third wants it because he is a tanner.

Senators Cameron and Scott have indorsed State Senator Worthington, from the Chester and Delaware District, for Naval officer at Philadelphia.

It seems conceded that A. T. Stewart's voice will be potent in regard to the New York Collectorship, and that Judge Henry Hilton will be his choice. The appointment of Hilton, or any other man Stewart may name, will be, from appearances, desperately resisted by most of the New York Congressmen.

No removals or nominations of Postmasters have been made yet where they are Presidential, but a number are being prepared for action early next week.

It is asserted that the name of Colonel Parker, the Indian Chief, of General Grant's staff, will go to the Senate on Monday as Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

The mission to England is the subject of some anxiety to the President. It has been his desire to appoint Horace Greeley, and at one time it was his intention to do so, but we doubt if this selection is now made. Mr. Motley is also mentioned.

A good many believe that Judge Shellabarger, of Ohio, will receive the appointment of Minister to Italy.

The date of Washburne's departure for Paris has not been decided upon. He will first go to Galena to settle up and arrange his private affairs.

The President has decided to give the English mission to Mr. Motley, and his nomination, and that of Governor Curtin to St. Petersburg, would have been sent in to-day if the Senate had been in session. Minister Marsh will not be disturbed at Turin.

It is said that an immense stock of nominations have been prepared at the White House, and will be sent in on Monday, among the principal ones being General Daniel Butterfield, of New York, for Minister to Spain; Col. Ruble, of this city, Minister to Switzerland, and Gen. Palmer, of New York, Minister to Stockholm. There is no end to the applications for Foreign Missions and Consulates. Over fifty are already on file for Consul General to Frankfort, thirty for Dresden, and other places in proportion.

The appointments outside the Cabinet do not suit the politicians any better than the first Cabinet did, and mutterings are made on every hand, not only on the streets and in the hotels, but by members and Senators, and the cases are not exceptional.

Complaint is made that applicants' papers are filed and classified, but not considered or referred to in making the selections, and that personal favor is the ruling influence in the appointments to office.

The city is crowded to overflowing, every hotel and boarding-house is full, and the Departments are overrun. Every train brings new additions, and if the ratio of increase continues the city will not hold its visitors by the end of the month. Such crowds of office-seekers were never known here before. It is not likely, however, that the hordes will remain for any great length of time, for the appointments will be disposed of during the coming week with astonishing rapidity, and every office filled will take on an average two dozen people from the city.

The pressure for office is beyond conception. It is far beyond that of 1865, and fully equal to the pressure of 1861, when there was a radical change in the Administration from Democratic to Republican. Members of Congress are beseiged in the most unmerciful manner. They bar their doors against the army of comers; they approach their lodgings through alley-ways and by back-staircases, to avoid the applicants. They seek refuge in out-of-the-way places, and pass sleepless nights because of the anxious throng who beseige them at all hours and upon all occasions. What is worse about it is that in the chaotic apheaval of things political here, it is impossible, even for members of Congress to tell, with anything like certainty, what they may expect. Never was there a worse time for calculations for patronage based solely on political service. States are at a discount—they are made and unmade daily. Recommendations for office are little better. Nothing is efficacious except strong personal influence, which carries with it a solid conviction of worth and merit. Impecunious office-seekers are rapidly losing their patience. Their resources are rapidly becoming exhausted, and in a few days hundreds of them will depart, sadder if not wiser men. Very little progress can be made on any subject until this office pressure abates; it occupies three-fourths of the President's time and the time of his Secretary. President Grant is growing weary and exhausted under it, and he is daily drawing the lines closer as to the number and character of visitors. This he must do, or cease to be anything more than a mere listener to the wants, claims and desires of thousands of people, without power to act. It will take about thirty days for this state of things to abate. An early adjournment of Congress will greatly facilitate it.

Commissioner Delano has taken hold in earnest, working day and night in order to get familiar with the business at once. There will be a general overhauling of all the internal revenue offices throughout the country, the new Commissioner being desirous of making himself familiar with the history and general official standing of each of them. Mr. Rollins has given him invaluable aid in this respect, pointing out the officers whom he considered honest and efficient, and those who have proved themselves otherwise. The President expresses great anxiety about the collection of the internal revenue, and has great expectations of Mr. Delano. The Commissioner's first desire is to rid the service of all dishonest and incapable officers, without regard to politics, and when that is accomplished, then, of course, those holding office, who supported Messrs. Seymour and Blair, will have to give way to representatives of the Administration party. Applications for office are pouring in upon Mr. Delano to-day, and three hundred were received and filed away.

CHICAGO, March 13.—Evening.—There was a fair movement in No. 2 spring wheat at the open board. Prices were a trifle higher, closing at $1,00, cash. Corn and oats ruled dull at closing on 'change. In the evening No. 2 spring wheat was quiet but firm at $1,08¾@1,09. Other grains were lifeless. Pork products were quiet but firm; sales 100,000 bbls dry salted shoulders at 12c on spot, and 1,300 boxes Cumberland at 12c in St. Louis.

BE CAREFUL.

At no season of the year is the above injunction of more weight than now. The changes of temperature have been so sudden from warm to excessive cold, that the human constitution, like everything else in Nature, feels the shock, and gives way to its impressions. Thousands of people who lie down at night, unconscious as it were, of injury to the constitution, wake up with hoarseness and coughs, which, unless the first symptoms are heeded, are apt to involve the lungs or some other of the vital organs in deep seated and incurable disease. If the fact were as well known to all our readers as to ourselves, that an infallible cure for most of these incipient ailments may be procured in DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE, the Doctor's new store would soon be too small to meet the exigencies required of it in the manufacture of this valuable medicine. Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure is without doubt a valuable desideratum in the cure of disease, a fact well known to thousands of people who have been relieved by its health-giving power. If the proper estimate were placed on human life and health, those who neglect coughs and colds would be fewer in number. Dr. Keyser would in no case, of a serious character, advise the dispensing with a doctor, but how many hundreds are there who, in the beginning of a disease, could be cured before a doctor could be reached. It is in these cases, as well as others of a more serious nature, that the lung cure comes to our aid and dispenses health and comfort, which otherwise would never be obtained. It is thus a handful of roots and herbs are made into a healing syrup, which is often the precursor of health and usefulness. The suffering invalid would often apply for relief if he knew where to promptly obtain it; and that it can be promptly obtained in Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure is no longer a doubtful problem. Let not the March winds make dangerous inroads upon your health, when, with a few doses of this syrup, you can fortify your system as well as drive out of it those noxious miasms which undermine its strongholds and render its exertions nugatory.

HOW HOSTETTERS BITTERS CURE DYSPEPSIA.

THE WHOLE STORY IN A NUTSHELL.

The office of the stomach is to convert the food into a cream-like semi-fluid, called CHYME. This is effected partly by the action of a solvent, called the gastric juice, which exudes from the coating of the stomach, and partly by a mechanical movement of that organ, which churns, as it were, the dissolving aliment. The CHYME passes from the stomach into the duodenum, or entrance to the bowels, where it is subjected to the action of the bile, and the nutritious portion of it converted into a fluid called Chyle, which eventually becomes blood.

Now, it is evident that if the great solvent, the gastric juice, is not produced in sufficient quantity, or if the mechanical action of the stomach is not sufficiently brisk, the first process of digestion will be but imperfectly performed. It is also clear that if the liver, which plays such an important part in changing the nourishing portion of the chyme into the material of the blood, is congested, or in any unnatural condition, the second process will not be thoroughly accomplished. The result of the two failures is dyspepsia, complicated with biliousness.

The mode in which HOSTETTER'S BITTERS operate in such cases is this: they invigorate the cellular membrane of the stomach, which evolves the gastric juice, thereby insuring an ample sufficiency of the fluid to completely dissolve the food. They also act upon the nerves of the stomach, causing an acceleration of the mechanical movement necessary to reduce the food to a homogeneous mass. They also act specifically upon the liver, strengthening it and so enabling it to produce an ample and regular supply of bile, for the purpose of converting the nutritious particles of the Chyme into Chyle, and promote the passage through the bowels of the useless debris.

In this way, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS cure dyspepsia and liver complaint. The explanation is plain, simple, philosophical, and true.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, March 13, 1869.

Rumors of gold sales by the United States Treasury, to take place this week, kept down the premium, although the market is heavily oversold. These rumors are based on Secretary Boutwell's notions of bringing down the price of gold as rapidly as possible, and the low currency balance now at the command of the Government. As for the necessity for gold to be sold to meet the currency demand, it may be said that the income tax is now being received to meet all payments required, whilst a mere pretext to sell a small amount of gold would carry down the premium considerably and disturb the values of all merchandise. The sale of a large amount of gold at present would actually weaken the credit of the government, and would bring down the price of our bonds at a moment when we need money for the spring business and give the bank of England a chance to advance its rate of interest, thus inducing a return shipment of bonds which would lead to an increased shipment of specie abroad and prevent a profitable shipment of our produce. A large decline of the gold premium would also prevent an increased planting of cotton for the season, as a reduced price for the present product would be very discouraging to the planters of a new crop. Former experience has shown that the most favorable moment for the sale of government gold, if such is a necessity at all,—which is very much doubted—would be for the month of June, before arrangements for the fall business are made, and prior to the large disbursements of gold interest in July. If the government wishes to use its surplus gold profitably to the best advantage of the government and tax paying people, it should use it for the purchase of bonds; which would answer the double purpose of strengthening our credit and reduce the interest on the public debt; and now is the time when bonds can be bought comparatively cheap for gold.

The average price of gold for the past week was 131¾, beginning at 131⅛, advancing to 132¼, and closing at 131¼.

In Government Bonds a better appreciation of new bonds is shown since Friday, when old 5-20's, 1862, advanced to 120¼, whilst new 1865's, 1867's and 1868's were selling at 112⅞ to 113, an actual difference in favor of 1862's, of 5¼ per cent. So long as it was considered doubtful whether bonds would be paid in coin, there was some reason in giving old 1862's or the first issues a preference, but now all bonds should be alike, and the day may not be distant when all new bonds command 120, or more, in currency.

Stocks were strong during the latter part of the week, but the rumors of gold sales would cause a tight money market, which induced a great many speculators to sell out.

In our local securities Allegheny Valley bonds are the only ones. They are more largely dealt in and considerable amounts were on the market for the past week.

Business is gradually improving, with money in better supply.

The bank statement shows a loss of $2,127,963 in specie, which is accounted for by the customs and export demand; but the increase of $414,560 in circulation is a little remarkable. The change in loans, deposits and legal tenders are slight and unimportant. Loans, $261,669,695; decrease, $420,188. Specie, $17,658,671; decrease, $2,127,963. The Stock market was strong until after the first open Board, when prices fell ½@¾ per cent. The Michigan Southern was the leading stock and was strong on rumors of stock dividend and consolidation. The New York Central, Northwestern, Pittsburgh and St. Paul were next in point of interest. The Western Union and Mariposa were active. The market continued strong at the 1 o'clock Board, the New York Central reaching 160⅞, on the report that the dividend on the 80 per cent. certificates would be paid out the same time with that of the old stock. Prices were subsequently a trifle off, but with an advance and noticeable rise in the St. Paul common.

The Evening Express says: The policy of the Treasury Department in the immediate future is the subject of much comment in Wall street. There have been some heavy short sales of Gold and Stocks, on the theory of early sales of Gold in consequence of the currency balance at this point being reduced to $5,000,000. There is considerable pressure brought to bear upon the new Secretary to induce him to sell Gold, nominally to increase his currency, but really to make a tight money market. The banks are in that condition at present that liberal sales of Gold would undoubtedly cause them to present their three per cent. certificates for redemption, thereby producing a momentary disturbance and unsettling legitimate business. The Treasury holds at different points over $10,000,000 of currency, and the recent reduction in the principal at the Sub-Treasury is due chiefly to large tranfers to army paymasters and to the pension account which may not be disbursed for some time to come. The revenue receipts from the income tax, however, will soon be coming in, when the Treasury will be liberally supplied with currency.

ETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, March 13, 1869.

The market has been somewhat excited and unsettled during the past week, particularly during the past two or three days, during which the bulls and bears have had quite a conflict, and the latter thus far appear to have had the best of the battle. New York has been selling pretty freely, and Pittsburgh seems to have done most if not all of the buying; the one with a determination to break the market down, and the other just as fully determined to keep it up. For two or three days the Pittsburghers held their ground, but yesterday there were manifestations of weakness apparent, and to-day there was a regular break, particularly in Refined; March selling down from 34 yesterday, to 33@32½ to-day. It is claimed that this bear movement originated at New York between the shorts and exporters, both of whom are deeply interested in having lower prices, and if to-day's operations can be taken as a criterion, the bulls have concluded for the time being, to let the bears have full swing.

CRUDE—As already intimated the market was weak and a little panicky to-day and prices compared with yesterday are a shade lower. Sales of 500 bbls on spot at 15½; 1500 do at 15¾; and 2,000 do seller for April at 16. It was reported that there had been a sale of spot oil at 16, but we did not see any one who had bought or sold it.

REFINED—The market was decidedly panicky to-day and compared with yesterday prices are off from one to one and a half cent, particularly for March delivery. Sales of 1500 bbls last half of March, at 33; 1,000 do, at 32½; 2,000 do, at 32¼, and 500 each April to June at 34.

RECAPITULATION. — Receipts of Crude this week, 6,679; last week, 7,891, from January 1st to date, 114,103; same time last year, 150,492. Exports Refined this week, 4,812; last week, 4,544; from January 1st to date, 61,218; same time last year, 55,393. Sales this week, 93,850: last week, 67,700.

Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, March 13.—The market is slowly recovering from the long dullness, and there are indications of a more active trade during the coming week, as the city is full of buyers. There was a fair business to-day and prices for most goods are steady; but the print market is a little weak, and the prospect is that the prices of many popular makes will be reduced next Monday to one shilling in accordance with the reduction of Manchester, Lancaster and other brands. Alpaca Braids will be advanced next Monday 5c on all makes, so Imperial will be put up to $1,05, and Union to $1.

CHICAGO, March 13.—Cattle Market—Beef cattle quiet and unchanged, at $5@6,25 for cows and stockers; $6,87½@7,70 for good to choice beeves. Hogs quiet and a shade firmer, at $9,50@10,50 for good to choice. Receipts—1,703 hogs. Shipments—3,063 hogs.

LETTER FROM THE WEST.

[Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.]

St. Paul, Minn., March 9, 1869.

At Chicago (a very small dose of which pious place always satisfies me) I learned accidentally that our old Water street neighbor, Matthews, (lately of Wood, Matthews & Co.) was proprietor of the new hotel just opened in Milwaukee, and, of course, on landing from the Northwestern Railroad's fast train, I at once sought the Plankinton House.

And a magnificent establishment it is; alike in situation, architecture, luxurious furnishment, and table; doing credit to the taste and enterprise of its builder, (an old Pittsburgher, I believe,) from whom it takes its name; as also, to the skill and good management of the lessees, Messrs. Matthews & Sague, whose genial kindness reaches all their guests. The house fills a want long felt by visitors to the beautiful and growing cream city.

I left reluctantly for a week's staying in the woods of vast Wisconsin, in the vicinity of the Upper Wisconsin river. Came by stage (on runners) from Appleton, on the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad, to Stevens' Point, seventy-five miles in thirteen hours, or, deducting stoppages for meals and change of horses and the mails, in a little over eleven hours.

Stevens' Point is the headquarters for the lumbermen of the Upper Wisconsin, and is a lively, growing town, looking forward to the good time coming with the railroad. The otherwise monotonous scenery of roads cut as straight as a gun barrel, through immense pine forests, was now and then relieved by the appearance of Lo the &c., wrapped in blankets and carring his wigwam (of matting) on his back, attended by squaw and papoose, who seemed to take to snow like young ducks to water. One small party of these original (Chippewa) Americans, who passed through Warsaw the other day, sold to a dealer, as the result of about a hundred miles hunt, some twenty pelts, comprising otter, marten, fox, musk rat and seven black bear skins with as many buck skins.

At Warsaw I found an old Fifth avenue neighbor, J. C. P. Smith, who is largely interested in the mineral developments of this valley, and will commence boring for salt and oil, as soon as the season permits, with the most sanguine expectations.

Returning, I took the lower or Prairie du Chien route of the railroad, (I mean the Milwaukee & St. Louis Railroad, which takes you everywhere in the northwest, with its 825 miles of road in operation, to say nothing of the connections and the partly built Tomah & St. Croix Railroad, which will give the traveler a third choice of route between Milwaukee and St. Paul,) crossing the Mississippi in ice boats, (pontoons on runners drawn by horses,) between Prairie du Chien and McGregor, and thence a a very pleasant ride over the Minnesota prairie to this place.

(Note to Travellers.—The Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad charges fare after the usual or eastern manner, and not by the hour, as some of these prairie roads do. I paid one the other day five dollars for ninety miles transit, at the rate of fifteen miles per hour!)

I find St. Paul (whose lions I am inspecting under the guidance of three old Pittsburgh neighbors) suffering under a combination of velocipede, Henry Vincent, M. P., &c., female suffrage (which was lost in the lower house last night by one vote), and land speculation, though the last item is differently pronounced here. I think they call it "An act to remove the capitol of Minnesota to the county of Kandiyohi." The aforesaid place is the fortunate "geographical centre" of Minnesota, and lies, if I am correctly informed, "in the woods between Minneapolis and Alaska."

More anon, from yours,

Carrx.

About Office-Seeking—Scriggs and the Rest—Great Expectations.

[Special Correspondence of Cincinnati Times.]

C. & X. and B. & O. R. R., }
March 1 and 2, 1869. }

The most noticeable peculiarity about the contents of this through B. & O. car which we get into at Xenia is the great prevalence of faces that one has seen so often at political conventions. These are all on a tour of pleasure to Washington. They look pleasant and popular, and have hopeful smiles upon them, reminding you of the picture in the comic almanac of the face that was "going to law," whereas the same returning about next week, if you could see them in the divers and sundry trains in which they will go lengthening dolefully home out of Washington, would illustrate the contrasting picture of having "been to law."

For these faces are pleasure-touring more to than they will be from. It must happen to most of them even worse than it did to my friend Scriggs, of Illinois, in whose sanguine and enthused company I went over this very route in 1861. He had been the original inventor of Abraham Lincoln, and had filed his caveat to that effect in his paper—the Boom-town Gazette—months before any other journal in the Union had the news. But Scriggs was not a man of immodest ambition, and would be satisfied with a moderate recompense for his inestimable services. Scriggs asked only the little Consulship at Havana—salary $6,000 gold; and he was as sure of getting this meek and lowly request granted with the mere asking as he was of going on with his life, and as full of spirits as a bonded warehouse.

Arrived at Washington, Scriggs crowned himself with a new plug hat, and put himself promptly before the authorities. The self-confident and life-like gayety with which that new plug hat went forth shining from the Avenue House in the morning, set up proud as the supercilious comb of a game rooster, and the disconsolate and heart-broken look of that poor plug when it came riding the jaded and disgusted Scriggs, head back to dinner, constituted such a ludicrous comment on "the vanity of human wishes" as would have made the serious and serene angels bawl with laughter. And Scriggs left, after a protracted and heart-sickening agony of hopes deferred for four weeks, with a commission in his pocket for the three-hundred-dollar post-office of his little home village.

The most of these present wayfarers will go back with a much smaller per cent. of consolation than Scriggs did. The new administration cannot, if it would, make outs enough to make ins of all these. Judging from the appearance of this train, there will be people enough in Washington this week, with office on the brain, to fill all the offices in the United States three times over, and tens of thousands to spare. So, with the prospect that Grant will not turn out many, if any, of the present incumbents except for cause other than political, and that these my fellow-travelers will have to wait for their warm seats indefinitely—and then maybe not get them—they are to be pitied as one pities the innocent calves in the tail-end of a market-wagon that is driving rapidly to the slaughter-house.

Here are five or six of our southern brethren, with their swarthy and solemn faces, their licked soap-locks under slouched hats, and their niggery pronunciation. The slabsidedness of the Yankee is proverbial; but, for utter leanness, absolute famine of red blood, and fever-aridity of all the vital juices, there is nothing in the American nature comparable to the aristocratic Gulf State man. The Southern heart has been fired so frequently that all its gush seems to have turned to crackling flame in the veins.

There is another characteristic of your aristocratic Southerner; he is fearfully and wonderfully solemn in his dignity. He is awfully earnest in his majestic bearing. An ass of the most distinguished breed could not look more preternaturally sage and imposing in his mien. Smile he may, at long intervals, with a most impressive air; but laugh, never. His smile is condescending and patronizing; there is a heavy tragedy expression in it, like the gracious and sublime smile of stagey kings and princes of the blood. He does not laugh; he only rattles his unoiled risibles once in a while, like a watchman's hurdy-gurdy.

These melancholy majesties of the Confederate States are of course good loyal Union men all; and they are going to ask "your Govern-ment, sah," to remember them for their noble and constant devotion to the Republic through all its years of peril. Sue Murphy's case was not more clear than theirs. Give them the offices, and there shall straightway be reconstruction and peace. And so forth. But there will be a tinge of Boothish blood and bushwhackery added to this grand gloom of Southern countenances when they have seen Grant on the topic of offices.

A Pacific Railroad Town.

"Carleton" writes to the Boston Journal the following account of the present terminus of the Union Pacific Railway—the town of Bryan, eight hundred miles west of Omaha:

The United States, at the present time can exhibit one thing not to be found in any other country—a Pacific Railroad town. By that we do not mean a town like Omaha, which is an old-established city, but one of the mushroom places which grow up in a night, last a week or two, and then are torn down and moved on to another locality. The railroad is pushed forward so fast, and the terminus changed so often, that a town only gets under way before it is pulled down and sent forward to a new place. You can find houses at the present terminus, Bryan, eight hundred miles west of Omaha, which have been put up and taken down fifteen or twenty times. The people who live in them are American Arabs. They are not only nomads, ever on the move, but they can steal and plunder as adroitly and with as little compunction of conscience as their brethren the Bedouins. Civilization and Christianity have not refined or softened their inhuman nature.

Let me not be understood to say that every man in one of these railroad towns is a villain, or a blackleg; on the contrary, honest men are to be found who, after bearing patiently with ruffians, till patience ceases to be a virtue, and there being no law or order, or organized society, take matters into their own hands and become a terror to evil-doers. When some flagrant crime has been committed—murder or assassination—these law-abiding men purify the place by hanging the murderers to the nearest tree, or if no tree is near they extemporize a gallows by tilting up the tongue of a wagon, and sending the ruffian into eternity before the body of the victim is cold. Such sudden punishment is like lightning on a sultry day—purifying and invigorating.

It was late in the evening when we entered the new town of Bryan, then about two weeks old. We rode up a wide street, bright with lights flaming in the windows of the restaurants and saloons, each shopman and bar-keeper trying by arrangement of kerosene lamps and colored glasses to outshine his neighbor in his endeavors to attract a crowd.

"There was a sound of revelry, and Bryan had gathered the largest part of her population for a high time. There was such dancing and fiddling, such drinking of healths, shuffling of cards and rattling of dice, as we never saw before. From the dance saloons came the sound of hurdy-gurdies, violins and banjoes, the rattle and clatter of the double shuffle and plantation break-down, mingled with shouts and oaths, the jingling of glasses, as the rude men, wild with whisky, and ruder woman, decked in silks, satins, flounced and ruffled, and glittering with trumpery jewelry, went whisking in each other's arms round the rooms.

The saloons during the day are not much patronized, but are thronged at night. It is a lively town. The whole population live on a small territory, and are dependent wholly upon the railroad for supplies. Were the cars to stop running the community would be brought to the verge of starvation in a week; but that contingency is not thought of, and this crowd of railroad followers are here to gather up the spoils which pass from the treasury of the company through the workmen into their hands.

The depth of snow in the woods of Maine is almost unprecedented at this season of the year. In many places it lays seven feet deep on a level. The Bangor Whig says some of the gangs of lumbermen, in starting to come out, have found it necessary to put their horses upon large sleds, to be drawn over the drifts by men upon snow shoes. It has been impossible in some sections to get supplies to the camps, and consequently operations are to some extent suspended. Many lumbermen from the neighborhood of Moosehead Lake have come out.

Sedan chairs, it is stated, have recently been brought into use in Paris for ladies. Four of these old fashioned vehicles were, a short time ago, to be seen at the respective doors of ladies of the highest fashion. Up to this time the sedan chairs have only been used for going to church and for short morning visits. A special toilet has been invented for this sort of conveyance, consisting of a black mantilla, trimmed with guipure, (gimp lace,) and the costume is called a sortie d'eglise.

GEORGE HARDING, Philadelphia, Pa.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of the Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.

The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy-Holders.

Several new and attractive tables are now presented which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former, the policy-holder not only secures life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. The latter the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy. The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

Circulars, Pamphlets and full particulars given on application to the Branch Office of the Company in Philadelphia, or its General Agents.

☞ LOCAL AGENTS ARE WANTED in every City and Town; and applications from competent parties for such agencies with suitable endorsement, should be addressed to THE COMPANY'S GENERAL AGENTS ONLY, in their respective districts.

THE ECONOMY BUTTER CO.

ask the attention of all interested in the reduction of the extravagant cost of Butter, to their practical and economical system of making pure prime Butter by the aid of the

EXTRACT OF BUTTER PLANT.

A brief allusion to the origin of this important discovery may not prove uninteresting. Among the authenticated records of the renowned Captain Cook's voyage around the world, is found the statement, that while sojourning for a short time on the Brazilian Coast of South America, he observed the natives using, in the preparation of their food, a peculiar oil, which, upon examination, he found to possess the appearance, taste and flavor of Butter; upon further inquiry, however, he ascertained that it was simply a substance that the natives distilled in a crude and imperfect manner, from a rich and luxuriant plant that grew spontaneously and abundantly in that warm tropical country. A few years ago, an eminent French chemist, while on a professional visit to the tropics, made numerous experiments with this remarkable production of nature, and succeeded in extracting a concentrated essence of the plant. The formula for its preparation, and the Sole Right for its sale in this country are the exclusive property of this Company, by whom it was purchased from the original discoverer. We claim for this remarkable, yet simple and perfectly harmless preparation—

1st.—That by its use a net gain of from 50 to 200 per cent. is made in the manufacture of Butter.

2d.—That Butter, which from age or whatever cause, may be strong, rancid, streaked or coarse-grained, and comparatively useless for general use, by the aid of this Extract, is restored to its original freshness and sweetness, fine-grain, and even color.

3d.—By the use of this Extract, one pound of delicious, fresh Butter is actually made from one pint of milk.

4th.—That a pure and excellent table Butter can be made, at a cost of from 15 to 20 cents per pound. The chief expense wherein being Butter, which is the essential base.

5th.—That Butter manufactured by the aid of this Extract is equal in every respect to the best Butter made by the ordinary method.

6th.—The Extract after thorough analysis, by able chemists, is pronounced perfectly free from any deleterious substance, the ingredients being purely of a vegetable nature.

8th.—In proof of the foregoing assertions, the factory of this company is making one ton of Butter per day, which meets with ready sale in the New York Mrrket, and is consumed from the tables of the first Hotels, Restaurants and Private families in this city and elsewhere.

A sample package of the Extract (sufficient to make 50 lbs. of Butter) with full directions for use, will be sent to any address on receipt of $1.

CAUTION.—As articles of real merit are subject to spurious imitations, we would specially caution the public against counterfeits and worthless imitations, advertised as powders, compounds, &c., as the Extract of the Butter Plant is prepared and sold only by

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Allegheny was devoid of interest on Saturday.

The Street Railways were well patronized in both cities yesterday.

Yesterday was a beautiful day, and as a consequence the churches were unusually well attended.

Notwithstanding the near approach of "moving day," there are still numbers of houses "to let" in both cities.

Large numbers of men without employment at present, are anxiously looking for the opening of the Spring business.

The street corner-loafers were out in large numbers yesterday. Through the active exertions of the police, however, this loafing nuisance was somewhat abated.

Universalist Fair and Festival.—This Fair is to be continued one week more. All who have not visited it should do so at once, as the prizes are all going off rapidly.

Confidence Operators seem to have forsaken Pittsburgh and vicinity, for the last two weeks at least. Perhaps the activity of the detectives has something to do with this state of affairs.

City Councils.—A special meeting of City Councils will be held at two o'clock P. M. to-morrow, when it is probable the subject of a Paid Fire Department will come up for consideration again.

Paddy Freel was arrested by the Mayor's police, yesterday, for breaking the door of his neighbor's house, in the Twelfth ward. Paddy was drunk, and was provided with lodging in the lockup.

We Noticed some of the Manchester Passenger Railway cars were running without bells on Saturday. This may seem a small matter, but should an accident occur it might assume different proportions.

Base Ball.—Base ball matters are beginning to look up. Several Clubs have commenced to perfect their organizations for the season. From present indications however, it will not be a remarkably lively one.

Abandonment.—Kate Steiner made information on Saturday before Alderman McMasters against her husband, John Steiner, for abandonment. The parties reside in the Sixth ward. The officers are in search of John.

The Columbia Hook and Ladder Company, of Allegheny, are making arrangements to send representatives to participate in the dedicatory services of the Mexican Soldiers monument in Harrisburg on the 26th of May next.

The rain which set in last evening about nine o'clock quickly cleared the streets of pedestrians, and caused no little annoyance and vexation to those in attendance at the various churches, which had just been dismissed.

Open Air Meetings.—Open air religious meetings will soon be commenced under the auspices of the Young Mens' Christian Association of this city. These meetings were quite popular wherever held last year, and seemed to be productive of great good.

Geo. Tatnall, son of Wm. Tatnall, manager of Shoenberger's Iron Mills, was the successful competitor for the gold watch awarded to the most popular young man at the Wesley Chapel Fair. He received 2,800 votes, a majority of 1,648 over all competitors.

Fell in a Fit.—Henry Matini, driver of a milk wagon, fell in a fit in front of the Custom House, at noon, Saturday. Medical assistance was procured, and in a short time he was restored sufficiently to be removed to his residence in the Twelfth ward. He is said to be subject to such attacks.

Collided.—Saturday afternoon about two o'clock a car on the Minersville Passenger Railway, while coming down Fourth avenue, collided with a metal wagon at the intersection of the avenue and Smithfield street. The platform of the car was broken and the body of the vehicle damaged to a considerable extent. No person was injured.

A Velocipede Ride.—Wm. Granon, an ambitious velocipedestrian, while practicing with a "machine" on North Canal street, Fourth ward, Allegheny, Saturday afternoon, had the misfortune to run into a fire plug and break both his legs and the velocipede. He was picked up and taken to his home, in the vicinity, where his injuries received proper attention.

Fined.—John Wilson, a lad about fifteen years of age, was arrested on Saturday afternoon by one of the Allegheny police for tramping over a part of the Allegheny Park, which had been laid out for flower beds. The boy was taken before the Mayor, who fined him five dollars for malicious mischief. His father secured his release by paying the fine.

Disorderly Conduct.—Mrs. Anna Payne made information before the Mayor yesterday charging Barney Gallaher and Barney O'Donnell with disorderly conduct. The accused were arrested and lodged in the lock-up to await a hearing. Polk Harkins was arrested on a similar charge, on oath of Alex. Murray, and was likewise placed in the tombs to await the convening of the Mayor's Court.

Little Wanderers.—Two little German boys, one about three and the other four years old, were found wandering about the streets in the vicinity of the grain elevator yesterday, about 12 o'clock, and taken to the Captain's office at the watch-house. They remained there some two or three hours, when the father of one of them, who resides on Ohio street, Allegheny City, called and took them home.

Allegheny Mayor's Office.—Nineteen forlorn and dejected law-breakers filed in before Mayor Drum, at his levee yesterday morning. This is the largest number present on a similar occasion for several months, Most of them had been found lying in the streets in a drunken condition Saturday night. Twelve of the number succeeded in mustering sufficient funds to pay the fines imposed. The remaining seven were comfortably housed in the county jail.

Child Severely Scalded.—On Saturday morning about ten o'clock, Willie Shoultes, a lad residing with his parents on Wylie street, was severely scalded by the upsetting of a boiler of hot water. The vessel was placed on the stove in the kitchen, and the boy in attempting to get a toy from the mantle incautiously caught hold of it to steady himself, with the result as stated. He was so badly injured that in some places the flesh peeled off his bones. Dr. Phillips was called in and rendered all the assistance possible, but the child's injuries are considered of a fatal character.

MISSIONARY ANNIVERSARY.

Interesting Services at Liberty Street Methodist Episcopal Church—Sermon by Rev. W. H. Locke, A. M.—Sunday School Anniversary—Addresses by Rev. T. S. Hodgson and Rev. Dr. H. Miller.

Much interest exists among the congregations of the Methodist Episcopal Church in this city and Allegheny and immediate vicinity, at this period of the Conference year, to promote the Missionary cause. All the systematic efforts to raise funds during the year through the congregations and Sunday Schools are brought to a grand climax just before the sitting of Conference. Several of the leading churches of this denomination have already held anniversary meetings and large sums have been reported.

Yesterday was wholly devoted by the old-time honored Liberty street Church to missionary purposes. The services were opened at the usual morning hour, with a sermon by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Locke, A. M., who discussed for a good part of an hour the success of the Gospel, from the following text, found in the 72d psalm, 16th verse: "There shall be a handful of corn in the earth upon the top of the mountains; the fruit thereof shall shake like Lebanon." The reverend gentleman commenced by remarking that they did not need to be reminded that the fulfilment of prophecy is received as one of the strong and enduring pillars on which the Church has always been content to rest the inspiration of the Bible, and the divine character of its teachings. He argued that he did not mean by prophesy those happy guesses of the future, which are often made by wise and discerning men, who have studiously observed the course of human affairs; nor yet such equivocal predictions as can be made to suit the event after it has transpired. There are no such prophecies as these recorded in the Bible; nor is this the character of those predictions upon which we depend to authenticate our holy religion. But, when events are foretold hundreds and thousands of years before they come to pass, and are portrayed with a minuteness of detail that could not be more particular if the prophet had been an eye-witness of the scene he records, then we must believe that some other hand than that of the human has drawn aside the veil of intervening centuries, and brought to light things as yet hidden in the bosom of the future. Such a prophecy he thought as this is contained in the text. Reference is then made to the prophetic vision of King David, and of the glory that should arise in future ages to the spiritual kingdom, small at first, but grand and triumphant in after time. So small did it seem to the prophet King, that he compares it to a handful of corn. So great did the opposition appear, that it was like planting that corn on the bleak mountain top. And yet so abundant was the harvest, that the rustling of its full ears sounded like the shaking of the goodly cedars of Lebanon. With this brief reference to the introductory remark, we can only give the points of the discourse, namely: 1. The small beginnings of the kingdom of Christ. 2. The opposition arrayed against it, and 3. The promised final success. The discourse was carefully prepared, well delivered, and made a fine impression, and its appropriateness was equal to its merits. It would read well in print, and deserves to be in type. At the close of the sermon contributions were made to the cause advocated.

In the afternoon the main audience chamber was well filled by the Sunday School and congregation. Mr. Edward Heazelton, Superintendent of the school, presided. Exercises opening with singing and prayer by Rev. Dr. Pershing, after which Rev. T. S. Hodgson, of Trinity church, delivered an address embodying the idea of thanksgiving in the missionary work, followed by Rev. Dr. H. Miller, of Smithfield church, who presented the contrast between the past and present operations of the mission cause. During the exercises stirring hymns were interspersed under the lead of Mr. W. B. Krebs. At the close of Dr. Miller's address the teachers of the respective classes reported the amount received during the year as follows:

Miss M. Patterson, $20.00; Miss M. Hershberger, $20.00; A. Bryce, $20.00; Miss S. Liscomb, $20.00; Miss M. Hunnings, $20.40; S. W. Hay, $10.25; Class No. 13, $1.20; H. B. Lewis, $20.00; J. N. Henry, $20.00; J. M. Arnold, $20 00; Miss A. McFarland, $20.00; Miss B. M Sutch, $20.00; Miss N. H. Hay, $20.56; G. W. Johns, $8.94; Miss A. Grier, $21.41; L. Lea, $6.73; W. J. Jackson, $25.00; J. Shallenberger, $40.55; J. H. Crump, $20.00; Mrs. S. J. Carter, $40.00.

This amount was appropriated to make the following Life Members of the Parent Missionary Society, $20 each: Bessie Cunningham, Jennie Wible, R. Buffington, Willie Anderson, Annie Lea, Jennie Banar, George Calder, Willie Shaffer, Maggie McCausland, Sadie L. Cunningham, Emma J. Fryer, Fannie Noble, J. Cornish, J. H. Crump, Hattie Kemmera, Nellie Dravo.

Propositions were then made to honor others in the same way. Mr. J. B. Hubley proposed on behalf of his sons to give $5 towards making Minnie Grier Heazelton a life member. The remainder was quickly raised, and the following were also constituted: Annie J. Krebs, Eddie Locke, Ellen Simpson Kincaid, Ellie Ashby Barbour, Bertha Cunningham, Willie Dravo, Zara Lewis, Maggie Miller, Frederick and Maria Glosser.

At night Dr. H. Miller discoursed in his usual felicitous style on the human cry for the Gospel and the duty of the Church to send it. It was seasonable as well as instructive. President Pershing participated in this service. Rev. Mr. Locke, the pastor, was active and indefatigable throughout the day in promoting the cause in hand. At the close of the service, Rev. W. H. Kincaid, Treasurer, gave a detailed statement of the result of the day's work, including contributions previously made, showing the total sum to be about ten hundred and fifty dollars, ($1,050.)

A. Swager.

Saturday afternoon a gentleman from the vicinity of Canonsburgh, Washington county, giving the name of A. Swager, having come to the city on business, meeting an old acquaintance imbibed rather too freely of Pittsburgh whisky, and was picked up by the police and taken to the lock-up. After remaining there until he was sufficiently sober to travel, he was released on the payment of a small fine, and departed, having in his possession about forty-six dollars. About half-past nine o'clock the same evening Mr. Swager was again found on the street too drunk to navigate and was again taken to the lock-up. On examination it was discovered that he had but four dollars and fifty cents left, some one having evidently relieved him of the greater portion of the forty-six dollars. He was taken care of until yesterday morning, when he was allowed to contribute four dollars and twenty five cents to the support of the city, and having but twenty-five cents left he started for Washington county, where whisky is not sold, a poorer if not a wiser man.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENTAL ASSOCIATION.

Adjourned Meeting—Act of Incorporation and Supplemental Bill—A New Design for the Monument—New Sites Proposed, &c.

An adjourned meeting of the Soldiers' Monumental Association of Allegheny County was held at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, Fifth avenue, Saturday at two o'clock P. M., Mrs. McKee presiding, and Gen. A. L. Pearson officiating as secretary.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

The Committee on Incorporation reported that the act of incorporation had passed the Senate and was now before the House.

SUPPLEMENTARY BILL.

Mrs. Robinson moved that the President be instructed to have a supplementary bill drawn up and forwarded to Harrisburg, providing that after the monument shall have been erected the same shall be turned over the custody of the Commissioners of Allegheny county, who shall have the same in keeping, and who shall appropriate a sum sufficient to keep the monument in repair, and thus perpetuate the memories of the fallen heroes. The motion was adopted, and the bill will be forwarded before the original act comes up in the House.

A NEW DESIGN.

The Secretary read the following communication from Joseph S. Kirk:

Mrs. McKee, President of the Allegheny County Monumental Association:

By request, I have prepared, and beg leave to submit a modified design for a Soldiers' Monument, within reach of the funds of your Association, together with a description of the same.

In designing I have been governed by the following suggestions: As the Monument is to perpetuate the memory of Allegheny County's fallen, an authentic record of such general and local matters that figured prominently in the late conflict should be permanent that generations to come may be amply enriched by the memory.

History is too general in its character to distinguish any one class of its country's defenders from others, who shared similar trials, endured similar sufferings in vindication of sacred principles. This is left to those communities whose sympathies mingle with theirs—is left with us.

For this reason, the names of battles should be conspicuous, as they in time will be confused in the roll-call of victory, without bestowing that share of honor to whom honor in part is due.

Equally essential from the constant change in costumes, is a correct representation in full uniform of the different branches of the service.

The unparalleled achievements of the Christian and Sanitary Commissions, whose untiring efforts in the cause of humanity and equal justice deserves more than passing notice, and as Freedom triumphed, the Goddess of Liberty is deemed appropriate, and should occupy a prominent position.

DESCRIPTION OF DESIGN.

Five parallel courses compose a base on which rests an octagonal pedestal supporting a corresponding die, from whose centre rises a colossal column.

Each alternate side has a semi-octagonal recess, which, with its intermediate raised scroll tablets, compose in part the lower portion of the monument.

In the recesses are life-sized representatives, in full uniform, of the different branches of the service—infantry, cavalry, artillery and navy. Names of battles occupy the raised tablets, while wreaths and shields, indicative of triumph, are between the victors and the victories.

The cap is formed by a series of semi-circular convex carved, extending sufficiently beyond the pedestal to protect the statuary and raised work below. On the keystone of the arches appear in full relief, badges of the different corps. The whole harmonizing in detail is emblematical of support and strength.

On each alternate side of the die above, whose general shape is similar to the pedestal, is a plain raised pannel, adding effect to the others, three of which are for such inscriptions as the Association may desire, while the other is a base relief embodying subjects of war and National Emblems.

The crown corresponds with the caps of the pedestal and die, but converging forms a base on which is mounted a colossal Goddess of Liberty.

Entire elevation seventy-two feet, (72,) with breadth of base twenty-two feet six inches, (22 6.)

By reference to the design it will be seen that great care has been taken to prevent vertical joints or any projection that would impair its durability, and without explanation show its full object.

It is proposed to make the body of the Monument granite and the statuary marble, as previously selected by your Association.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH S. KIRK.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 13, 1869.

It was stated by Captain Jennings that Mr. Kirk would donate the design to the Association if adopted, and that a monument constructed in accordance therewith would cost about $25,000.

NEW SITE PROPOSED.

General Pearson stated that it was proposed to remove the steps leading to the Court House yard at the corner of Grant street and Fifth avenue, farther up the avenue, to erect a collossal bronze statue in the corner, and he suggested that the monument be placed there.

Some objections were urged and no action was taken.

On motion, the Association adjourned to meet at the call of the President.

Disgraceful Row.

Between eight and nine o'clock Saturday night a disgraceful affair occurred at the Pennsylvania Hotel, on Penn street, in the Tenth ward, Daniel Voltz proprietor. David Jones and Jim alias Paddy Porter it appears were, as usual, on a "drunk," and at the time stated went into Voltz's hotel and called for something to drink, which was given to them, and which they refused to pay for. Words passed between them and Mr. Voltz, and Jones, it is alleged, threw a beer glass at Voltz, which missed him but took effect among the bottles and glasses behind the counter. Voltz then picked up a hammer and the "roughs" fearing he would use it ran out of the house, when they renewed the attack with stones, a number of which were thrown through the windows and door of the establishment. The police, it appears, had been called from that locality to quell a disturbance at the Methodist church on Liberty street, some distance away, and consequently knew nothing of the row until it was all over.

Mr. Voltz made information charging the parties with malicious mischief, and the officers arrested Jones yesterday morning and locked him up for a hearing. Porter had not been arrested at a late hour last night, but the officers were after him, and will probably have him in "limbo" this morning.

Novel Case—Telegraph Operator Arrested for Sending a False Message—The Information.

We announced a few days since in our telegraphic columns the arrest of Charles N. Scott, a telegraph operator in Cincinnati, charged with sending a false message over the lines, for the purpose, as it is alleged, of defrauding C. H. Murray & Co., proprietors of a lottery in Covington, Kentucky.

A partial hearing was had in the case Friday, before Judge Straub, in Cincinnati, and was continued for a further hearing on the 17th inst. Following is a copy of the information upon which the prosecution is based:

The information is to the effect that Charles N. Scott, on the 26th day of February, 1869, with force and arms, at the city of Cincinnati, then and there being a certain person connected with the Western Union Telegraph Company, operating a line of telegraph in the State of Ohio, as an operator in the employ of said Company, did, knowingly and unlawfully, transmit by such telegraph line a certain false communication and intelligence as in the words following, to-wit: "Hack," "Justil," "Lost," "Manager," "Newark," Olympic phrase retail sanguine trimble volume August office quintal nymph; said words then and there being cipher words previously arranged by and between C. H. Murray & Co. and their officers and agents, to communicate intelligence then and there, and thereby and then and there being falsely used by said Charles N. Scott then and there, with intent to injure said C. H. Murray & Co. and a certain person and persons and companies to the said Prosecuting Attorney unknown, contrary to the form of the statute in such cases made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the State of Ohio.

Mr. Arthur C. Lewis, who has charge of the Pittsburgh table at the office of the Western Union Telegragh Company, was put upon the stand by the prosecution to prove the sending of the alleged bogus dispatch from Murray & Co., of Covington, by Scott. The witness testified that between twelve and one o'clock upon the day in question Scott was about the table, and while he was absent for a few moments the message was sent. In less than ten minutes the error was discovered by the lottery agents in Pittsburgh, and the dispatch was sent back for correction. How the mistake was discovered the witness did not know; it was inferred to be one of the mysteries of the business. As soon as he was notified of the error he gave the defendant the true message, which was sent without delay.

Where are the agents in the city located?

Republican Nominations.

The Republicans of East Birmingham held a primary election on Saturday, to place in nomination candidates for the several borough offices to be filled at the ensuing election. The following ticket was nominated:

Burgess—August Ammon.
Council—Henry Shepherd, W. J. Miller, Jenkin Jones.
Constable—H. Zedel.
Assessor—Jno. N. Jarrett.
Auditors—George Trautman Milton Church.
School Directors—Jno. L. Jordan, M. A. Arnholt, Jacob Gue.
Judge of Election—David Sheering.
Inspector of Election—John Shepherd.
Return Inspector—David Shepherd, Adam Trautman, Jr.

In South Pittsburgh an election was held for the same purpose, when the following named gentlemen were placed in nomination:

Burgess—Dr. J. H. Roberts.
Council—Frederick Kauf, William Sheargold.
School Directors—Robert J. Eccles, 3 veras, William H. Barker, 3 years, Geo. Coutant, 1 year.
Assessor—William Millholland.
Judge of Elections—David Davis, Jr.
Inspector of Elections—William H. Howard.
Return Inspector—Henry Moorhead.
Auditor—George T, Robinson.
Constable—John Stemler.

Attempted Robbery.

At an early hour on Friday morning last an attempt was made, by some unknown marauder, to rob a grocery store on Ohio avenue, near Sedwick street, Fifth ward, Allegheny. The operator effected an entrance to a room over the store through a side door from the street, using an "outsider" to accomplish his purpose. He had previously tried to open the store door with the same instrument, but failed in the attempt. The room into which he gained access was occupied by the proprietor of the store, who was awakened by the noise which the intruder made in ransacking the premises. Discerning this fact, the would-be robber beat a precipitate retreat without waiting even for the formalities of closing the door after him, dropping the spoils which he had secured, as he ran, and thus gaining nothing for his boldness and daring. There is no clue which would lead to his detection.

Professional Arrested.

The Mayor's police arrested George Leslie yesterday, who, it is alleged, is a professional thief. His presence in the city has been known to the officers for some time, and notwithstanding they made diligent search for him, they were unable to "nab" him until yesterday. They found him in room No. 17, at the Mansion House, where, it is alleged, he has been for five weeks, yet his name does not appear on the register. A woman occupied the room with him. He was placed in the lock-up, and this morning will be allowed to take his departure from the city on the first train, with a request not to return again, or if he prefers it will be committed to jail for ninety days. Verily the way of the transgressor is hard.

Insane Man Arrested.

Charles Gentes, a Frenchman, who for some time past has been staying at the Soldiers' Home, was arrested yesterday and taken to the lock-up, and will be sent to jail this morning with a view of having him sent to Dixmont Hospital. It appears that he served in the army during the late rebellion, and is drawing a pension in consequence of a wound received. His mind is considerably deranged, and when he drinks whisky he becomes unmanageable. He had just drawn his pension for the last six months and had about twenty-five dollars in his possession when arrested.

That Dog.—Our readers will remember the information made before Alderman McMasters, some time since, by Jacob Whitesell against James Irvin for trespass vi et avmis. The parties are residents of Sewickley and the alleged offence consisted in the killing of a valuable dog, owned by the prosecutor. A hearing was had in the case on Saturday, before the Alderman, who, after a number of witnesses had been examined, reserved his decision until to-day. The damages are laid at $100 by the prosecutor.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—The engagement of Mr. Proctor closed Saturday night, and to-night Mr. Joseph Jefferson, the great comedian, will appear in his great specialty of "Rip Van Winkle."

SMYTHE'S AMERICAN THEATRE.—M'lle Libbie, the great commedienne and vocalist, and Signor Cuppelo, the amusing pantomimist, are the leading attractions at the American to-night.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—The success of the new company at the Pittsburgh Theatre Saturday afternoon and evening was unprecedented. Manager Williams has been peculiarly fortunate in the selection of his people. The company comprise an array of talent seldom found in a varieties establishment, and their entertainments are unsurpassed.

MASONIC HALL.—Emerson, Allen and Mnnings' Minstrels have engaged Masonic Hall for a short season, and will give the first entertainment Thursday 18th inst. This troop enjoys a high reputation and is spoken of in the most flattering terms by the press in all the western cities they have visited. They will doubtless draw crowded houses.

Re-Opening.

In accordance with previous announcement, the Second U. P. Church, corner of Stockton avenue and Sandusky street, Allegheny, which has been closed for repairs and alterations for several months, was re-opened for public worship yesterday. The services throughout the day were of a very interesting character and attracted a large congregation. The pastor, Rev. J. B. Clark, preached the dedicatory sermon in the morning, and was followed at night by Rev. J. T. Pressly, D. D. In the afternoon communion service was held. The occasion was one of great interest to all concerned. The congregation have now one of the handsomest and most complete church edifices in the vicinity.

Reprehensible Amusement.

William Reismyer, a youth of about sixteen years of age, amused himself on Saturday morning by throwing stones at the Orphans Asylum, on Tannehill street. Several of the misseles went through a window, much to the annoyance of the inmates, some of whom narrowly escaped being hit. Mr. William Kane, a resident in the neighborhood, noticed the boy's action, and made information before Alderman McMasters against him for malicious mischief. A warrant was issued. Reismyer is said to be demented. It is stated that he was arrested some time ago for attempting to set fire to a building, but after a trial was released on this plea. If such be the case, he should receive proper attention, and not be allowed to run at large.

Religious.

Very interesting religious services have been going on in the First Cumberland Presbyterian Church during the past week, and not without abundant good fruit. The zealous pastor, Rev. E. G. Squires, one of the most faithful laborers in the vineyard of his Master, had the pleasure of receiving into the fold of the Church, at Communion yesterday, eleven new members, all of whom were won to the banner of Christ during the series of religious exercises held during the week. This congregation is one of the most flourishing and progressive in our midst, and we are glad to note the large accession of members gained yesterday.

Kept the Harness.

Jacob Allen made information before Alderman M'Masters on Saturday morning against Jacob Whitlow for larceny by bailee. The parties reside in Chartiers township. Allen alleges that he loaned two sets of harness to Whitlow, which never were returned. Whitlow states, on the contrary, that he purchased the harness and accordingly kept his own property. The property in dispute is valued at twenty-five dollars. Whitlow was arrested but waived a hearing before the Alderman and gave bail in the sum of five hundred dollars for his appearance at Court.

Information Renewed.

Eliza Grabarki made an information before Alderman McMasters, on Saturday, against Samuel Harkowietz, for larceny. The prosecutrix alleges the defendant obtained possession of two trunks containing valuables to the amount of five hundred dollars, and one hundred dollars in money, which he appropriated to his own use. This is the renewal of an old information which was made against the defendant some time since and upon which he was committed to jail for trial, but after remaining there a few days, secured a release through some technicality. A warrant was issued.

Painful Accident.

Charles Housebeck, residing on Avery street, Fourth ward, Allegheny, on Friday evening accidentally discharged the contents of a pistol into his right hand, lacerating it in a terrible manner and lodging the ball among the bones. As soon after the accident as possible Dr. N. W. White was called in and dressed the wound, removing the ball and several pieces of the bones in the hand. There is danger that amputation will be necessary, but with care this may be avoided. The injured man was attempting to shoot a vicious dog when the accident occurred.

Farewell Sermon.

Rev. L. F. Morgan, D. D., recently pastor of Christ M. E. Church, Pittsburgh, preached his farewell sermon to that congregation yesterday. The discourse was of unusual eloquence and power, and was listened to by one of the largest audiences ever assembled in the church. Dr. Morgan leaves this city to take charge of a congregation in Baltimore, where he formerly resided. Though residing here but two years, he has made many warm friends, whose fond wishes and earnest prayers follow him to his new field of labor.

Agreeable Relationships.

Mary Cunningham and Margaret Cunningham are sisters-in-law. They reside in Miller's Court, Tunnel street. Saturday morning a little dispute arose between them, which finally waxed boisterous, much to the annoyance of the neighborhood. Mary came off second best and accordingly to get even, as she expresses it, lodged information before Alderman Strain, for surety of the peace and disorderly conduct against Margaret. Warrants were issued for the arrest of the accused.

Committed.—Alderman Thomas on Saturday committed to jail John Devin, on an information preferred against him by Martin Walz. The parties reside in the Sixth ward.

Marvin's Superior Crackers are superior to all others in this market. For sale by all grocers in the city and county.

A Bad Pear.

Bernard Lafferty made information before Alderman McMasters, on Saturday, against Richard Pear for assault and battery. The parties are employed at Lindsay & McCutcheon's rolling mill, Fifth ward, Allegheny. They got into a row in the mill on Saturday, when, according to the statements of Lafferty, Pear picked up a shovel and struck him on the right hand, smashing the fingers and almost severing one from the hand. A warrant for the arrest of the alleged guilty Pear was issued.
